CHRIST THE SAVIOR

LESSON TEXT—Luke 15:3-7; Romans 5:6-19.

GOLDEN TEXT—And thou shalt call His name Jesus; for it is He that shall save His people from their sins.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Our Savior.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Our Savior.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Jesus Saves Us.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christ, the World's Redeemer.

I. The Savior Predicted (Gen. 3:15; Is. 9:6, 7).

In connection with the fall of man and the pronouncement of judgment upon the woman, man and the serpent, and the announcement of the undying enmity which was to exist between the seed of the woman and the seed of the serpent, ultimate victory was predicted of the woman's seed. This enmity has continued all through the ages, even to the present time. On the cross of Calvary the final stroke was made which crushed his head (John 12:31; Heb. 2:14; I John 3:8). This announcement concerning the Conquering One was the first gleam of the glorious gospel of Christ. A great victory was won, but at an infinite cost. The prediction of the Savior became more specific in Isaiah 9:6, 7. The eternal Son of God was "given" to the world, but He was "born" as a child.

II. The Savior Born (Luke 2:11 30, 32).

That which had been predicted was historically fulfilled in the birth of Jesus Christ at Bethlehem. When Jesus was brought into the temple as a child, the Holy Ghost revealed to Simeon that this was the Messiah. He took the child Jesus in his arms and blessed God, declaring that he had now with his eyes seen God's salvation and that He was to be a light to lighten the Gentiles and was to be the glory of Israel. This appearance of the Savior was heralded to the shepherds by the angels as they ascribed to God the highest glory and announced peace on earth and good will to men.

III. The Savior Described.

1. He seeks the lost (Luke 15:3-7). This seeking of the lost is illustrated by the man leaving the ninety and nine sheep and going after the one which was lost, and his rejoicing over his success in finding it.

2. He died for the lost (John 3:14-17).

As the brazen serpent was lifted up in the wilderness by Moses, so Jesus Christ was lifted up on the cross. God gave Jesus Christ to die, to make an atonement for the sins of the world. All those who believe on Him receive eternal life and therefore escape condemnation. Christ's coming into the world was not to condemn the world but to bring it to salvation.

3. He knows His own (John 10:14)

As the Good Shepherd who seeks out the lost and gives His life for them, He has a definite knowledge of each one of them. Not only does He know them personally, but they in turn know Him.

4. He keeps His own (John 10: 27-29).

Believers are Christ's sheep and because they are His sheep they hear His voice and follow Him. He not only gives unto them eternal life but holds them in His omnipotent hands. They are absolutely secure because no man is able to pluck them out of His hands.

IV. Some Blessings Received Through the Savior.

1. Physical strength (Acts 3:1-11) The healing of the lame man at the beautiful gate of the temple is a fine example of Christ's ability to heal the body. This man had been lame from birth. Because the life of Jesus Christ was brought into touch with him, he was able immediately to arise—strength came into his feet and ankle bones. Not only did he arise, but he walked and leaped, praising God.

2. Justification (Rom. 5:1-11).

The one who receives Jesus Christ is declared righteous. His guilt is removed, and because he is justified, he has peace with God, the assurance that God loves him, and real joy in God Himself.

3. Christ is the Supreme Example to the believer (Phil. 2:5-10).

Because the Savior became incorporated with the race through the incarnation, He is able to impart life to those with whom He is identified. Furthermore, because He thus imparts life, the believer is able to make Him an example. He is able to express the same spirit of devotion and humility in giving himself in service instead of being served.

Spend Time With God

It is the failure to spend a definite, even though it be short, time each day with God that is the secret of all weakness, variableness, and shallowness in our spiritual experience and service.

Man Alone Able to Think

Of all God's creatures man alone is able to think immortality. What Darwin called "the grand instinct" has survived for countless aeons the shock of bodily death.—Dr. S. P. Cadman.

Duling, her former pastor. She leaves to mourn their loss her husband and the following children---E. A., Robert W. and Henry J. and Miss Lou Covington and her mother, Mrs. Ella W. Swan, and the following brothers and sisters---W. A. Swan, Mrs. John H. McCue, Mrs. C. G. Rosser, and Mrs. G. A. Parks of Appomattox county, Mrs. R. R. Young of Prospect and H. B. Swan of Bluefield, W. Va.

WIFE AND EX-WIFE SHARE HAPPY HOME

Both Mother Child in Strange Kansas Family.

Wichita, Kan.—George Dooley of Wichita is the head of a peaceful household consisting of his wife, his former wife, and his five-year-old daughter, Katherine.

When Mrs. Daisy Dooley received her divorce from Dooley the court ruled Katherine should be in the custody of her mother three days out of each five, and with the father the remainder of the time. Dooley remarried, and now all live in the same house.

The two Mrs. Dooleys declare they are not in the least jealous of each other. Katherine receives the loving attentions of both her mother and her stepmother, who co-operated in giving her a merry Christmas day.

When asked which of her mothers she loved most, Katherine replied: "I love both of them. . . love my mamma and I love Nena, and I love my dad by his name Dooley."

Dooley, who is United States quartz miner inspector for his district, said he was very happy over the success of his unusual arrangement.

"You know seven people have funny ideas about marriage," he said. "They can't see how a scheme like this will work.

"For five months I was on the Chicago police force and both my present and ex-wife were with me. All of the boys used to wonder how I could manage it. Some declared it can't ever get along with one woman, how can you live with two? But I really am happy and so are they."

The present Mrs. Dooley (Nena) explained the situation this way:

"Last October I lost my only child, a little boy, Kitty is taking his place in my life and at the same time filling her mother's heart with joy."

Town Refuses to Move "Column With a Curse"

Augusta, Ga.—Sentiment which for 60 years has allowed "the column with a curse" to stand in the middle of a sidewalk, was cut recently when a paving program made practicable the removal of the queer relic of a tornado's fury.

The column, once the pillar of the city market house, has stood at Broad and Center streets ever since a tornado hit Augusta in 1878. Old citizens say that an itinerant minister predicted that the old market house would be destroyed the day after his sermon. He declared that but one of the big pillars supporting the market house would be left standing and declared that any attempt to move the pillar would be fatal; that the person who tried it would be struck by lightning.

As it happened, a tornado hit this town the next day and only one pillar of the market house was left standing. Some years ago city officials said the pillar would have to be destroyed to permit certain street repairs. A large number of workmen carried the entire column for four days. There was an explosion and they dropped it. And today the pillar stands where the workmen dropped it when some practical joker exploded a firecracker.

Art Is Used by Pastor to Stress His Sermons

Springville, Pa.—Rev. Charles W. Baker, jr., pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran church, illustrates many of his sermons with charts and sketches he has made himself. On Sunday school and church assemblies he gives chalk talks.

At the altar of a large mural of Christ in the garden of Gethsemane, a copy of the Michelangelo mural in the Vatican which the minister has painted. In his church and parsonage Mr Baker has hung numerous other of his paintings and sketches.

While attending college and the Lutheran seminary at Gettysburg, Pa. Mr. Baker had an advertising sign writing route provided him with funds for his education.

Man Both Grandfather, Great-Grandsire in Day

Denville, N. Y.—Becoming a grandfather and great grandfather in a day was the good fortune of C. E. Green of this village.

The grandson is Jacob Albert Green son of George H. Green of New York city while the great-granddaughter is Miss Barbara Jane McNeil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herold E. McNeil of San Diego, Calif.

Child Pasteur Saved Became His Watchman

Paris—The first child Pasteur succeeded in saving of hydrophobia in 1885 now is principal gatekeeper at the Pasteur Institute tuberculosis. He is Joseph Meister, an Alsatian.

Meister has grown older and stouter, but he is still known as Little Meister. "le petit Meister," to every one at the institute. He keeps watch at the gate just opposite the building which houses the vault and last resting place of the great scientist who saved his life, the first of so many others.

BLISTERS IN EARTH TO ALTER ITS SHAPE

That Is What Noted Scientist Sees for Future.

New York.—The earth's crust probably is not "dead" and finished in shape, the American Association for the Advancement of Science was told by Dr. Bailey Willis of Stanford university.

Instead, even the stable bottom of the Atlantic ocean now may be heating up preparatory to causing land shifts. The theory is that scores of miles down in the rocks that form the skin of mother earth, great blisters form, as big as whole states, and that as they melt the rocks, the resulting upthrust "make the earth's surface what it is, and whatever it may change to.

But there was nothing of possible human catastrophe in Doctor Willis' picture, for he spoke in the new time concept of science, the changes requiring millions of years. He named well known places where on the slow time scale the shifts probably now seem under way.

Great Plateau of Granite.

Doctor Willis' address inaugurated the annual convention of the association. His subject was "the Evolution and Development of Continents." He said all continents are great plateaus of granite, standing high above the sea bottoms, which are of basalt, a heavier rock.

"We know the kind of rock that underlies the sea," he said. "From seismograms. With aid of earthquakes we can shut our plummets more than half way to the center of the earth. We know the velocity at which shocks travel, the paths at which they go through or around the earth, and the kind of rock they pass through.

"We know that the earth is enveloped about 2,000 miles thick with elastic rock, below which is a core about 2,000 miles in radius, apparently fluidatic, very hard, probably iron, which may be melted."

The heat that causes blisters, he said, probably does not emanate from the earth's inner core.

"Compression by gravity," he added "is capable of producing all the heat of which we have evidence. As rocks heat, the melting tends to extend latterally faster than upward, thus forming blisters—asthenoliths, we call them.

"Conditions favorable to formation of asthenoliths appear ready to develop in those layers thirty to six hundred miles below the earth's surface and probably only those within less than one hundred miles of the surface directly affect it.

"A blister may grow several hundred miles across, and be ten to twenty miles deep, containing one or more million cubic miles. The cover eventually breaks around the margins, where eruptions follow, and finally the cover falls into the emptied center. Conditions thus theoretically sketched are features of the smaller depressions that are the decor of the ocean floor. The Windward and Hawaiian islands are examples of volcanic ridges surrounding such deeps.

Takes Years to Grow.

A blister requires perhaps several million years to grow. A very large number of eruptions, a great many miles apart and an enormous lapse of time must have been required to form Africa, Eurasia and the Americas in this way. Probably the interval after each continent corresponds with the reindeflight of actions required by the theory."

Adobe Houses in Old Mine Town Yield Gold

Monterey, Mexico.—T. L. Crandall, a British mining engineer who has arrived here from Guzapil, an old, mining town buried in the heart of the mountains, has found that slag from the smelters operated by Spaniards more than 200 years ago, and long abandoned, carries high values in gold.

Even the old adobe houses are rich in the precious metal, according to assays which he made recently. Some of these were built in Guzapil as high as $500 to the ton of gold, silver and copper. Mr. Crandall has interested a syndicate of mining men in the possibilities of smelting the slag and the adobe-built houses by modern methods.

School Runs Laboratory to Strengthen Pupils

Lebanon, Tenn.—A human laboratory for experiments designed to develop a stronger boy of preparatory school age is being conducted at the Castle Heights Military academy, located here by Major James McNeil, president.

Every student is required to take part in some branch of athletics. Only black bread is served the cadets. The school prepares its own flour, dairy dishes and vegetables and dietary measures are part of the school training.

City of 11,500 Guarded at Night by One Cop

Derby, Conn.—Because of an error in police department bookkeeping this city of 11,500 inhabitants is being guarded at night by only one patrolman. Three men were dropped from the force by Chief Thomas Van Etten when he discovered that through an unexpected shortage there would be only money enough to pay one night policeman for the rest of the fiscal year.

Thought for Today

Truth is the bond of unity and the basis of human happiness. Without this virtue, there is no reliance upon language, no confidence in friendship, no security in promises and oaths.—Collier.

Mane Puzzled Betty

Little Betty was viewing the various animal exhibits at the zoo with wide-eyed interest. Pausing before the lion's cage she asked her mother, "Does he always wear a fur neck piece in the summer time?"

PAINFUL INDIGESTION

"I SUFFERED a good while before I found something that would help me," writes Mr. E. W. Berry, of Neosho, Mo. "My trouble was indigestion, pains in my chest and a tight, stifled feeling that would make me feel smothered.

"Speaking of this to a friend of mine, he told me that Black-Draught was good for this trouble. I went over bought a package. It certainly did help me, so I continued to use it.

"I am in the traveler business, and sometimes when I would be hungry and ready to eat, I would have a call and would have to eat later. Then I would eat too much or too hurriedly. This would cause indigestion. After I started using Black-Draught, I found it did me a world of good. It is a splendid for biliousness and stomach troubles."

Mrs. Alma Woolridge

Whereas it hath seemed wise and good in sight of our Heavenly Father to call unto Himself after an illness of only a few hours, a beloved member of our Willing Workers Sunday School Class and Evergreen M. E. Church, Mrs. Alma Woolridge.

In passing of this loved one we feel that the class, the church and the community have lost a most valuable friend, one who was ever ready to serve for the cause of her master.

Resolved 1. That this Sunday School Class has lost a most helpful and faithful co-laborer, one of its best friends and efficient members.

Resolved 2. That we deeply sympathize with her afflicted loved ones, but rejoice to know that they sorrow not as those that have no hope, but as having assurance that she is at home with Jesus.

Resolved 3. That in loving remembrance of her, we as a class will try to be more faithful and loyal and ever ready to follow her example in loving service to others

Resolved 4. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes, a copy sent to the family of our deceased friend, and a copy be published in our county paper.

Bogus Generals Collect Tribute From Chinese

Peking.—Bogus army confounders have been causing the authorities trouble of late in several parts of China. In one or two instances a sort of district civil war was on the verge of breaking out when the regular army officers heard of the fraud.

The "general" and his staff, while the recruiting progresses, try to convince the people that they are about to be attacked and that they must put up money for their own defense. Some of these self-styled generals carry forged documents of appointment as commanders in chief, and have been operating in such numbers that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's emergency commandant of the Peking district, has organized a special department to deal with them.

Real He-Man

Copenhagen.—Some he-man is P. M. Petersen, captain of Knud Rasmus son's exploring schooner, in Greenland once, says Knud. Petersen in a grapple, trying to capture a polar bear alive, thrust an arm down the bear's throat. The crew had to shoot the bear to free the captain.

Simplicity of cooling system is a feature of the new Ford

A COMPLETE water plant is a part of every automobile as it is a part of every modern city.

The purpose of this water plant is to keep the engine cooled to a temperature that will make it efficient in operation. If it were not for this, the cylinder walls would become overheated and the pistons refuse to operate.

The cooling system of the new Ford is particularly interesting because it is so simple and reliable.

When the radiator is full of water, the engine of the new Ford will not overheat under the hardest driving. Yet the water is so regulated that it will not impair engine operation by running too cold in winter.

The cooling surface of the Ford radiator is large, with four rows of tubes set in staggered position so that each receives the full benefit of the incoming air. The fan is of the airplane propeller type and draws air through the radiator at the rapid rate of 850 cubic feet per minute at 1000 revolutions per minute of the motor.

The hot water around the cylinder head is drawn to the radiator to be cooled by a centrifugal water pump of new design.

The entire cooling system of the new Ford is as simple in design and so carefully made that it requires very little attention.

The radiator should be kept full, of course, and drained once each month so that sediment will not collect and retard the free passage of water. In cold weather, a reliable anti-freeze solution should be added.

As owner and manager of this important water plant you should also see that the water pump and fan shaft are properly lubricated and the packing around the pump shaft kept in adjustment.

Hose connections may also need replacement after long service. For those little adjustments, it pays to call on the Ford dealer.

He works under close factory supervision and he has been specially trained and equipped to do a thorough, competent job at a fair price.
